

Can to can season has come

The higher the temperature gets, the more the beverage consumption swells after Golden Week. And also the more used beverage aluminum can originates. Every year from June till October, our can recycling business falls on busy time.

In 2014 the consumption of aluminum beverage can is predicted 19.64 billion can, the highest record, by the Aluminum Can Recycling Association. So our can recycling will supposedly be pretty busy this season.

Besides, the Japan Coca Cola recently released that they market aluminum coffee can switched with conventional steel can. In Japan traditionally, the coffee can has been made by steel completely. So this is a hot news for aluminum can business.

Aluminum cast and diecast production favorably in March

The Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry recently revealed the aluminum cast and diecast production in March. According to this report, the production of aluminum cast in March increased 0.2 per cent from a year earlier to 35,871 ton, and the production of aluminum diecast in March rose 4.8 per cent year on year to 84,768 ton.

Owing to the rushed demand against consumption tax increase, the production of aluminum diecast showed successive seven months' increase.

Checked market price of magnesium

Metallic magnesium is one of the most important metals to produce aluminum alloy, and is made in China mainly. Old days in Japan, metallic magnesium was made from sea water, however today, it is said that it is made with the by-produced gas from coke production by carbonization.

Therefore the relations between the volume of magnesium production and the volume of its consumption seem to be very hard to balance, and it reflects the checkered market price.

In China the stable production and firm shipment of magnesium are expected in the future.

The chart on page two shows the eventful market price of metallic magnesium, US$ per ton.

Have a happy day today

Hisashi Amano, Chairman

In the morning at bus stop, I meet a small girl, her smaller brother and their mother on the way to Kindergarten. When my bus starts, they wave their lovely hands to send me off, and at the same time I wave my hand out of bus window saying in my heart, "Have a happy day today, everyone. Thank you for sending me off."

I don't know who they are, however on such a day, I can spend a very happy time all day long. Whenever I meet this happy-like family, I remember my Kindergarten age. I graduated from Nishio Kindergarten in 1933, when it was a dark and poor age, but fortunately I have had so many happy memories of Kindergarten life.

I sincerely hope that such pretty boys and girls whom I meet in the morning will thrive uneventfully in the future.
